

Village Lawyers, Legal counseling in your neighborhood

(Source : Legal Affairs Division, Ministry of Justice ☎ 02-2110-3500)

Consult with village lawyers, 1500 lawyers offering free legal counseling

Esq. KIM, Jeong-eun, Village Lawyer
- Saengcho-myeon, Sancheong-goon,
- Gyeongsangnam-do
- Oodo-myeon, Jeju-do

Currently, 1,500 village lawyers are allocated in all 1,412 villages around the country.

Free legal services from lawyers are available at any time through phone, fax and/or e-mail.

Contact details of village lawyers can be found through community center, Korean Bar Association and Ministry of Justice

마을변호사

Search '마을변호사' in Naver and you will be able to find contact details of village lawyers.

Other enquiries: Planning Division, Korean Bar Association(02-2087-7852), Legal Affairs Division, Ministry of Justice (02-2110-3500)

Philometra and Anisakis, parasites of oceanic fishes

(Source : Agro-Fishery Products Safety Division, Ministry of Food and Drug Safety ☎ 043-719-3273)

- Philometra commonly found in oceanic fishes such as sea-perch gets mistaken as Anisakis. While philometra is scarlet, thin and long(3~30cm), Anisakis is white or yellow and short(2~3cm). Therefore, they can be easily differentiated.
- Philometra that are parasite with oceanic fishes does not infect human bodies nor have any health impacts. However, in case of Anisakis, it may cause stomachache or nausea when infected.
- Even ~~the~~ fishes infected with Anisakis would not infect humans when they are eaten raw, as long as the fishes' intestines are completely removed while the fishes are still alive.
- In case ~~the~~ dead fishes are kept in ~~the~~ storage without removing the intestines, it is not safe to consume them raw. It is advised, therefore, to cook them on heat or keep it frozen (-20°C, for 24 hours) before consumption.

Picture of Philometra

Picture of Anisakis larva